

John A. Vering

Senior Counsel

John Vering devotes a substantial portion of his practice to serving as an arbitrator and mediator with an emphasis on resolving a wide variety of employment related disputes. Having served as a AAA arbitrator and mediator for over 20 years, John is regularly selected to arbitrate and mediate non-AAA disputes. He was also selected to become member of the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals (NADN). In addition, he counsels clients regarding compliance with employment laws, defends employment lawsuits and administrative charges, prosecutes and defends non-compete and trade secret cases, reviews and drafts employment policies, handbooks, and employment agreements, and conducts discrimination and harassment investigations.

The experience to defend employers against employee claims.

Appearing before federal and state courts, as well as administrative agencies throughout the Midwest, John defends employers in connection with an array of employee claims including cases alleging employment discrimination based on sex, sexual harassment, race, religion, national origin, as well as violations of the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Americans with Disability Act (ADA), the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), the Missouri Human Rights Act and the Kansas Act Against Discrimination. He also handles matters involving wrongful discharge claims and defends individual and class action wage and hour claims. He defends actions brought by the National Labor Relations Board and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), including death cases.

The expertise to litigate unfair competition matters.

Frequently, John litigates unfair competition matters arising from breaches of non-compete and non-solicit agreements and violations of the Uniform Trade Secrets Act. He regularly secures temporary restraining orders and preliminary and permanent injunctions to prevent businesses from suffering the irreparable harm that would result if their trade secrets were disclosed or their customers or employees were unfairly solicited by former employees.

Beyond litigation, an employment advisor and educator.

John drafts, reviews, and provides state-of-the-art policies, handbooks, and employment contracts. He speaks, writes, and trains employers on how to avoid discrimination and other claims by employees. His goal is to provide practical, thorough, and common sense counsel up front to help his clients avoid getting sued.

A responsive attorney in your corner.

John understands that issues don't just occur from 8 to 5, which is why he makes himself accessible in the evenings, on the weekends, and when he is traveling. He recognizes that clients often need immediate answers to their questions and quick filing of injunctive actions to prevent unfair competition, or to prevent the opposing party from obtaining injunctive relief against a client. He makes himself available around the clock.

The ability and experience to resolve disputes as a neutral third party.

John regularly serves as a mediator and arbitrator of employment disputes. This includes serving as an arbitrator and mediator for the American Arbitration Association and on mediation panels for the United States District Court for the Western of Missouri and the District of Kansas. This experience is another tool in his belt, as he has first-hand knowledge of how to resolve disputes as a neutral third party.
