

Michael E. Griffin and Robert D. Maher Join Seigfreid Bingham, Expanding the Corporate, Tax/Estate Planning, and Creditor Rights Practice Groups

Seigfreid Bingham is pleased to announce that Michael E. Griffin and Robert D. Maher have joined the firm as Shareholder attorneys in the corporate law practice group and several industry groups.

Mike and Rob have over 25 years of legal experience and strive to provide the highest level of client service. Both are recognized in the legal community, having been awarded by numerous outlets, including Best Lawyers in America and Super Lawyers, among others.

Mike focuses his practice on estate planning, business succession planning, probate, trusts, tax, and business law, with a strong emphasis on working with families to protect their assets and generational inheritances. He also provides a wide array of other corporate legal services, including (but not limited to) operational/transactional proceedings, business formation, mergers and acquisitions, and employment agreements.

As a creditor rights and real estate attorney, Rob works with clients on complex receiverships, foreclosure litigation, and real estate transactions. He represents many well-respected banks and financial companies on matters involving loan positions, claims, judgments, and forbearance periods, both locally and nationally. Rob also works with commercial, retail, industrial, and residential real estate clients in numerous areas, including acquisition, financing, development, and more.
